

High winds on fourth day of race bring competitors to a standstill

Photo by 2001 Far Inc., M. Paquette

Competitors in the Raid the North Extreme adventure race trade stories as they wait to be allowed back on course. Gale force winds and over two metre waves prompted race organizers to close down the kayaking sections in Notre Dame Bay and Grand Lake. Weather permitting, the teams will take to their boats sometime this morning.